A fine of five dollars and costs was imposed, which we hope will prove a useful lesson to Mr. Nichols, and a warning to all others who may feel disposed to indulge in fast driv-

BULLETIN.

THE contract for filling the cavity in the street, exposed by the remeval of the market house, has been let to Mr. William Jailor McHale has his calaboose gang pumping the water from the disterns this morning, preparatory to the repairs ordered by the city council. For this purpose he he had in use the hose and little einghe of the Hibernian fire company.

WE regret to learn that Dan Able, the debris of whose Cairo business house still cumbers a levee lot near 14th street, became involved, with others in that "unfortunate Paschal House Gift Enterprise. The U.S. District Attorney entered suit against him and other originators of the scheme for the tax on the tickets sold and penalty for non-payment. At a recent term of the U.S. District court judgment was rendered against the defendants for $12,000, being within $1,000 of the amount claimed. The best legal talent of St. Louis was employed on the side of the defendants at an expense of not less, certainly, than $5,000.

Mrs. HANO, a stout English woman in stituted complaint before Squire Shanness this morning against one Martin Powers, for this: that the said Powers, in company with others, whom she did not recognize, came to her house on Thirteenth street, about 12 o'clock last night, and demanded admittance. She refused to admit them, whereupon Powers smashed in the door and window and entered the room. Mrs. Hano, anticipating trouble, had provided herself with a revolver, and fired one shot at her disturbers, but without any other effect than to eause Powers to chase her out of the house into the back yard.

Powers entered an appearance before the squire about 10 o'clock this morning, and by unimpeachable testimony proved an alibi-that he went to bed at his boarding house at 9 o'clock last night, and remained there until breakfast time this morning. On such testimony the defendant was acquitted, of course.

THE City of Chester, here Saturday, brought up 950 bales of cotton, and the Arlington 170, all of which went forward by railroad within a few hours after its arrival.

The steamer Julia, here yesterday brought up about 800 bales which went forward with equal dispatch, remaining no longer than the time involved in its removal from boat to cars.

The National and Blue lines of trans, portation furnish facilities that can scarcely be overtaxed, and the cheapness of their rates and the success attending their management must, as they become better known, largely increase the business, which is already immense.

Mr. J. A. Jones, agent of the National Line, has an office in the depot of the Illineis Central railroad, and is a gentleman eminerally well qualified for the trust reposed in him.

CAPTAIN DEXTER ON DRCK AGAIN .-We are pleased to learn that that veteran steamboatman and elever gentleman, Cap-Ir you want a good, stylish and well- tain Dexter, has effected a purchase of the steamer Arkansas Belle, and will soon be "himself again" in the Cairo and Evansville trade. The price paid is said to be $45,000; and the boat is described to be just such a craft as ought to succeed the City of Evansville.

There is the "get-up" of a dozen ordinary individuals in Captain Dexter, and as obliging as he is determined and enterprising, it is not to be wondered at that he is universally popular in his old trade. He has served the Cairo and Evansville trade long, faithfully and most acceptably, and we hear of his purpose to "never give it up so " with unfeigned pleasure.

With Pennington and Laughlin to preside at the desk and Dexter on the roof, the Arkansas Belle is destined to become decidedly popular; and if there is any money in the trade she is just as certain to get a large share of it as she is to make an effort to do so. Success to her-big!

THE ATHENEUM TO-NIGHT.-Burt & Ridgway's carnival of novelties will be displayed in the Atheneum to-night, rain or shine. The world-renowned Prof. De-Caux, illusionist and ventriloquist, the man with the talking and singing hand, will exhibit his budget of ventriloquial and legerdemanic wonders, and Mr. W. G. Ware will be on hand with his Royal Marionette troupe, which, in the language of the circular, "embraces a necromantic theatrum of twenty-flvo apparently animated automatons."

The proprietors will distribute every evening, one hundred valuable presents, consisting of a great variety of useful and ornamental articles, such as French china tea sets, gold and silver watches, plated tes and table spoons, groceries, fancy goods,

THE BALL AND SUPPER WEDNESDAY NIGHT .- That the sick and wounded soldiers of the French army, for whose benefit a ball and supper, for Wednesday night are announced, have a strong claim upon our sympathies, no American citizen can dony. In the darkest days of the Revolution the French people came to our aid. and, whether actuated most by a love of the principles for which we were contending, or by a hate for Great Britain, the service they rendered us was most timely and acceptable. The American people may now evince a grateful memory of thatservice and at the same time show a becoming sympathy for suffering and needy humanity. We need scarcely say that the people of Cairo will not fail to respond to the appeal, made as it is to their sense of gratitude, to their sympathy and patriot-

The ball on Wednesday night, will be one ,nat our best cit'zens may attend with every assurance that it will be properly conducted, and free from any feature that can offend the most fastidious. Tickets admitting lady and gentleman to the bull and supper are fixed at the low price of $2 50, yet, if all who can do so, will buy a ticket, the net profits will form a sum that will provide for the wants of many a poor, sick and wounded soldier, and be accepted as an assurance that the people of Cairo have for gotten neither Lafayette nor Yorktown,

DR. S. B. THE splenidid run of custom enjoyed by Messrs. Goldstine & Rosenwater, 138 Commercial avenue, is due to the fact that they keep exactly what the trade demands. and sell everything at the lowest possible figures. Their Winter supply of ladies' dress goods, Irish poplins, merinos, lustres alpacas; mink and other furs, bleach and brown sheetings and domestics, is unusually full, attractive, and will be sold at lower prices than like goods have been offered during the season.

They desire to call especial attention to their stock of clothing, a large addition to which was received this day. Every article is of the best make, and the variety is so general that no one can fail to suit himself alike in style, quality of goods and price.

A large stock of white, colored and varigated yarns are offered at greatly reduced prices. In short, for anything in the dry goods and clothing line it will pay to go directly to Goldstine & Rosenwater, as they are in a condition to serve customers with anything in that line in the most satisfactory manner. de12d&w1w

A PARAGRAPH recently published in a St. Louis paper concerning the death of an old German, named Charles Rhoderick, calls to the mind of an old resident of this vicinity, the following facts:

About the year 1840 Mr. Rhoderick reach Cairo, on his way to New Orleans; but learning that the yellow fever was raging in the South, he concluded to go no further. Being a carpenter by trade, he secured employment from Mr. Richard McDonald, who was then engaged in the erection of a number of buildings for the Cairo company. He assisted in the ercetion of the Holbrook house, the "big carpenter shop" and foundary, remaining here until the summer of 1841, when he went to St. Louis, where he located. He left his family near Baltimore, Maryland; and, after reaching St. Louis, wrote for them. to come on. He received no tidings from them. After the lapse of several weaks he wrote again; but receiving no answer, finally wrote to an acquaintance requesting information, and then learned that his famiily had left the neighborhood, but no one knew whither they had gone.

Although greatly troubled in mind, he devoted himself to his trade, and in the course of a year or two accumulated several hundred dollars, with which he started out in search of she trunnts. After a year's fruitless search he returned to St. Louis, and again devoted himself to his trade. A few years afterwards he made a second search, passing through Canada, northern New York, Maryland and Virginia, returning after the lapse of six months, in a state of mind bordering on distraction. Nowhere could be abuilt the least trace of his family; and the conviction was now fixed upon his separation from them was final. His worst fears were realized. The ensuing twenty-six years brought him no tidings of the missing ones and a few days ago he was found dead in his hut, in the vicinity of St. Louis, where he died of paimonary hemorrhage.
